Hello! Thank you in advance for the effort you will put into developing this simple project. It will help us understand how you think about certain tasks and what your abilities are.

The main task of this test assignment is to code a simple business travel application. Developing login/registration/profile (username in header + logout) is optional. The core design can be found here. All assets can be exported directly in Figma.com.

For input country search use data retrieval from an external source. The "Endpoint" with JSON data output can be found at this URL. Use any JS library.

You can use any tools that will make your work easier or will help the project with its long-term sustainability.

Push the result into your repository, describing your work so that another developer can continue with the work.

Send the result to or invite directly codereview@cleevio.com.
